

OTR-BROADCAST-2026-JAN28

📅 Wed, Jan 28, 2026 5:23PM 🕒 17:52

SUMMARY KEYWORDS

Earthquake, Iranian protests, Eglinton LRT, snow removal, internet restrictions, Alex Preddy, TMU volleyball, Super Bowl 60, municipal elections, winter weather, TMU by-elections, Multi-faith room, Canadian talent, entertainment news.

SPEAKERS

Gabriel Hilty, Mia Di Panfilo, Moyo Lawuyi, Speaker 2, Speaker 5, Speaker 4, Aisha Shabeese, Speaker 6, Jaden Whitelaw, Manroop Aulakh, Saba Iqbal, Speaker 3, Speaker 1, Miguel Mabalay, Source 1

G

Gabriel Hilty 00:14

Good afternoon. Thanks for joining us today. I'm Gabriel Hilty.

S

Saba Iqbal 00:18

and I'm Saba Iqbal. Here are some of the stories we are following from On The Record News,

G

Gabriel Hilty 00:24

an earthquake felt in the GTA, ongoing protests by the Iranian community, plus a potential opening date for the Eglinton LRT.

S

Saba Iqbal 00:35

More than 2000 residents across southern Ontario felt the crown Sheik Tuesday night after a magnitude 3.7 earthquake was recorded near Orelia the tip, the tremor was felt as far south as Toronto, Kitchener and St Catharines, with no reports of injuries or damage, expected earthquakes. Canada says the quake struck just before 11pm about 100 kilometer north of Toronto social media quickly filled with reactions whereby residents calling the quake another challenge after the recent extreme winter weather.

GGabriel Hilty 01:11

Speaking of that winter weather, Toronto continues to dig out from a record snowfall that saw more than 55 centimeters on Sunday, Mayor Olivia Chow announced at a Tuesday press conference the city is now moving from plowing to the second phase of its response. Snow removal. Workers and trucks today started to clear snow city wide after beginning yesterday around hospitals, Chow announced the city now has six sites to dump and melt snow, an increase in capacity from last year. She acknowledged that sidewalks with snow can pose a barrier, especially to those with limited mobility. People can call 311, to request extra help from city staff.

SSaba Iqbal 01:59

Members of the Iranian community in Toronto continue to protest against government crackdowns internet restrictions and the silencing of protesters in Iran OTR reporter Manroop Aulakh was at one of these protests last week,

MManroop Aulakh 02:22

1000s of miles away from their home country. Members of the Iranian community in the GTA say their connection to Iran remains deeply personal as protests continue back home behind me, protesters have gathered outside the US Consulate in Toronto, and they're calling for international action for the protests and the things that are going on in Iran. Protests in Iran erupted a month ago following increased inflation that later led to rallying against the clerical leadership under Supreme Leader Ayatollah Ali Khamenei for ongoing human rights violations. As a result, the Iranian authorities have cut off internet for the past two weeks, leaving many of the protesters here unable to contact loved ones back home.

SSource 1 03:04

It's very challenging for me. It's really hard to be focused on everything, because I cannot even know if my family are safe at this moment. So I'm just trying hard to be focused, and also try hard to be the voice of people in Iran,

M

Manroop Aulakh 03:19

demonstrators gathered here, hoping their voices are heard and that leaders of the world will take action. We're hopeful that President Trump would help Iranian people with military actions, because, as you know, people are risking their lives in the streets and Islamic Republic, our Islamic Republic is actually doing massacre, killing all the people, while protesters accuse the Iranian government of committing crimes. The Iranian authorities denied the claims, reiterating most killings by the US, Israel and their allies international pressure, says Iranian affairs journalist Shahnaz Karmali is required, and Western governments have a role to play, but she warns their credibility depends on how they address human rights at home. I think, I think it's helpful if Western governments call out human rights abuses, but I think they in other countries, but they have to recognize two things when doing that. One is that when they do it, they have to be very cognizant of the fact that that they could be exhibiting double standards, because if you're not, if you're not like a genuine human rights leader or champion your own country,

S

Speaker 1 04:07

M

Manroop Aulakh 04:35

protesters in Toronto say they're determined to continue rallying until they see meaningful action, even as voices inside Iran remain silenced, reporting for OTR News. I'm Manroop Aulakh.

G

Gabriel Hilty 04:49

Outside the US Consulate this week, Torontonians gathered Tuesday night to lay flowers, candles and signs for Alex preddy, the man who. Was shot dead by ICE agents in the US on January 24 organizer, Camila Jamal told Toronto today the vigil was spontaneously organized after people online asked about Memorial events in Toronto. 37 year old preddy is the second person killed by ice in Minnesota in recent weeks, amidst the aggressive operations led by the Trump administration, backlash against the agency is growing, including here in Ontario, where Brampton based company Rochelle recently sold 20 military vehicles to ice.

S

Saba Iqbal 05:37

TTC riders could soon get some long awaited relief. The Eglinton Crosstown LRT is now expected to open on February 8. Ontario premier Duckworth seemingly confirmed the date Monday, saying he was advised by the TTC. After years of construction delays, there is still uncertainty, though, TTC CEO Mandeep Lally wouldn't commit to the early February date at an event on Tuesday. The project has taken nearly 20 years of planning and building and has faced criticism over delays and a cost 1 billion over budget. Premier Ford says the line has been thoroughly tested and will finally open to the public, a big step forward for Toronto Transit,

G

Gabriel Hilty 06:25

From Toronto's transit struggles to Canadian talent making more positive headlines in entertainment. OTR reporter Miguel Mabalay has a look at what is making entertainment news this week, including an Olympic appearance and homegrown talent heading to the Oscars,

M

Miguel Mabalay 06:46

a popular Canadian hockey drama is making its way beyond the screen on Sunday, heat of rivalry stars Hudson Williams and Connor story carried the Olympic flame as torch bearers in the Milano Cortina 2026 torch relay. The pair took part in the realized 49th leg through feltra Italy, walking with the flame and waving to cheering crowds along the route. Canadian actor, director, screenwriter and producer Jacob Tierney, created heat of rivalry in 2025 the show has gained a loyal audience for putting a queer love story at the center of a professional hockey setting, something that is rarely seen in sports television, another Canadian hockey series is also getting attention this week. Shores. The has officially been renewed for her sixth season in 2021 Jared keso created the show as a spin off from letter Kenny and filmed it in Sudbury, Ontario. Since its debut, the series has become a fan favorite across Canada. In film news, several Canadians are heading to the Academy Awards on March 15. Oscar nominations were announced last Thursday for Best Animated Short. Montreal animators Chris Lavis and mache trebowski earned a nomination for their Canadian National Film Board stop motion film The Girl Who Cried pearl. Montreal filmmaker Allison McAlpine is also nominated for Best Documentary Short for their film, perfectly estrangedness. Toronto's very own Maggie Kang is nominated as the writer and co director of K Pop demon hunters, which is up for Best Animated Feature. And the film also picked up a nomination for Best Original Song for Golden Toronto's domichi is also nominated in Best Animated Feature as the CO writer and co director of Elio. Canadians are also represented behind the scenes for Guillermo del Toro's Frankenstein. The film's nominated teams include makeup and hair styling domine's Mike Hill, Jordan Samuel and Cleona fury, plus production design nominees Tamara deverel and Shane voe, Canadian producer Jay miles Dale is also among the nominees through Frankenstein's Best Picture nomination. That's all for entertainment, for On The Record News, I'm Miguel Mabalay.

S

Speaker 2 08:56

Now from entertainment to sports, here is what's happening. The TMU bowl hosted its winter homecoming games this past Friday night at the Mattamy Athletic Center. It was the first time volleyball has been chosen as a sport to welcome students back for the semester. Jaden Whitelaw was at the game and has the story...

J

Jaden Whitelaw 09:22

TMU's Winter homecoming did not disappoint, as the women's and men's volleyball teams went to battle against the Waterloo Warriors. It was the first ever volleyball Hoko at Tmu and students think it's about time the sport gets some recognition on a larger scale.

S

Speaker 3 09:36

I feel like volleyball is a very entertaining sport. In my opinion, it's one of the more entertaining sports so I'm surprised. It's not like the NBA or like NHL or anything.

S

Speaker 4 09:46

It's high pace, high intense. No one who I would know wouldn't like it.

J

Jaden Whitelaw 09:52

Guaranteed those who made the trip to the Mac Friday night did not leave empty handed.

S

Speaker 5 09:57

Fans who showed up early for the game were able to get some free merch, including a

J Jaden Whitelaw 10:00

towel and a tooth. The women's team was in a battle from start to finish, but just fell short, losing three sets to one. They didn't leave without providing some highlight plays. It was now time for the men's game, but the bull did not want fans to be left hungry. Take an inspiration from the Toronto Blue Jays, fans are able to buy hot dogs for just $1 today, on to the men's game now, and we got to experience a classic TMU had their backs against the wall down two sets to one, but did not give up a nail biting fourth period was the turning point for the bowl.

J Jaden Whitelaw 10:52

TMU went on to claim the victory to cap off an incredible game. Whether you were there to enjoy the volleyball, the free merch or the loomy dogs, everyone left the map of something to remember and even a new favorite sport reporting for On The Record News, I'm Jaden Whitelaw.

S Speaker 6 11:11

Thanks Jaden for that. Look at the start of TMU sports for the winter. Now we're looking ahead to Super Bowl 60 and upcoming TMU bold games. Aisha Shabeese has more.

A Aisha Shabeese 11:26

It's been a busy time in sports, as the matchup for Super Bowl 60 is finally set. The New England Patriots will face the Seattle Seahawks as boat teams clinched their spots following this past weekend's AFC and NFC championships. This is the first time since 2015 and the Tom Brady era that these two teams will be going head to head for the Vince Lombardi trophy. The Super Bowl will be played at Levi's Stadium, home of the San Francisco 40 Niners, in Santa Clara, California, on February 8, bringing the long NFL season to its close. And don't forget your dance shoes as bad bunny is the Super Bowl Halftime Show performer in Toronto sports news, the Toronto sectors are taking the ice tonight against the Montreal Victoire. This is the pwhls final game before the two week long Olympic break. The scepters currently sit sixth in the pwhl standings with a four and seven record. Will they improve that? Find out as puck drop is set for 630 in Tmu sports, a lot is happening this Friday with several Tmu bold teams in action. So listen up. Both the men's and women's basketball teams continue their regular season play as they host Queens University at the matami Alec center. The games go back to back with the women's tipping off at 6pm followed by the men's at 8pm on the ice, the men's hockey team begin their three game road trip against the University of Waterloo at 7pm while the women's hockey team is hoping to redeem themselves after a two game losing streak, they host the University of Windsor at the Mac at 615 and in volleyball, both the men's and women's teams are on the road in Guelph facing the Guelph griffins in back to back matches At 6pm and 8pm that's all for sports. Back to you at the desk.

S

Saba Iqbal 13:05

Thanks, Aisha, now let's have a look at the other stories we are working on today and this week in our on the record newsroom, Moyo Lawuyi is standing by life. Moyo, what have you got for us?

M

Moyo Lawuyi 13:18

Thanks, Saba, starting with an update from the Tmu by elections, Tmu still does not have a student government, despite voters heading to the polls and by election last fall, in a mass email, the Students Union announced on January 20 that all executive ballots were deemed null and void due to allegations of voter interference. This later announced. This latest announcement follows TMU's history of mismanagement of funds and election complaints. i Reporter Julia Sawicki spoke with TMU's President, Mohammed Lachemi, to hear his thoughts on the tmsu investigation, to know who exactly is in charge of this investigation, since there are no executives on the board, and to find out what the school is doing to protect students from this campus. On this campus, expect this story on our website this Thursday, over at the student campus center, there have been new changes in TMU's Multi faith room. Students complained that prayer mats were removed and that the building staff were positioned in front of the door after the winter break, but the University says it isn't involved. More on that, we use suzadeh on the website later this week, here in the on the record newsroom, we are preparing for the upcoming municipal elections on October 26 season eight of our podcast aims to help students understand local politics. Last week, Aisha and I spoke to city councilor Josh smartlow and Chris Moyes to break down how power works at the municipal level. We also spoke to Tmu students about how well they understood the roles of their city councilors. Next week, our hosts Julia Petrucci and Saba Iqbal will take a deep dive into the city's budget, helping you understand how the local government spends your taxes. Make sure you listen to our first podcast episode and the upcoming one out next week on Friday. You can also check out our website, on the record news.com. For any news stories. Back to you in the studio, Gabriel.

G

Gabriel Hilty 15:18

Thank you, Moyo. I don't know about you, but I was definitely cold coming into the studio today. Let's check in with Mia di Panfilò for the weather and to see how the winter continues.

MMia Di Panfilo 15:33

If you're planning on stepping outside anytime soon, make sure that you're bundled up well, because this winter weather is making itself very comfortable across southern Ontario. Temperatures are locked into a deep freeze this week, and unfortunately, not going anywhere. We are looking at cold days ahead, with Peterborough dropping to a minus eight, heading south and west. It even gets chillier, with both Barry and Newmarket at a minus 10, while Oshawa and Toronto sit right around minus nine with a sharp bite in the air. St Catharines isn't getting much of a break either, also at minus nine, offering very little relief across the GTA, it's consistently cold, and Brampton and Mississauga both hitting minus 10. The good news is there is no snowfall expected in the GTA, which should make leaving the house that much easier. But the bad news, these temps are assumed to drop a lot lower. So hats, gloves, scarves are all non negotiable this week. Now on to our weekly forecasts, starting with Wednesday, we're looking at a daytime high of minus nine, with temperatures falling to minus 13 overnight, a bit more manageable. However, once we reach the second half of the week, conditions take a sharp turn. You could see an extreme drop in temperatures, with Thursday going as low as minus 22 and Friday, which is shaping up to be the coldest week, with overnight lows reaching a brutal minus 24 this forecast may be subject to change, but as of now, winter is firmly in control. I'm Mia depamplio, and that's the latest on this week's Deep Freeze. Stay warm, stay safe, and back to you.

SSaba Iqbal 17:14

Thanks, Mia. That's all for On The Record this January 28. I'm Saba Iqbal.

GGabriel Hilty 17:20

and I'm Gabriel Hilty, thank you to everyone for tuning in to our first broadcast of this semester. OTR is back next week with a new podcast episode on municipal politics, and our broadcast returns in two weeks.